- All seats and plaques remain the sole property of the Everyman Palace Theatre.
- The Everyman reserves the right to approve all lettering. We will contact you prior to engraving if amendments are required, for example if the engraver feels that your inscription is too long.
- It is envisaged that the plaques will be displayed for a minimum of 5 years. In exceptional circumstances, the Everyman reserves the right to move or relocate the plaques without liability.
- Although designed to last, plaques may become worn or damaged over time owing to natural causes. No liability can be accepted for this by the Everyman.
- The Everyman will have complete control over the location and installation date of the plaques.
- Sponsorship of a seat does not include complimentary access to performances or the right to sit in 'your' seat. When booking tickets to shows in the Everyman you may request the seat with your plaque on it only if the seat has not already been booked by another audience member.
- Plaques will be assigned to seats on a first-come first-served basis but if people have a favourite seat we will try to accommodate that.
